Introduction

The key content and skills to be covered by all new AS and A Level English Literature specifications mean it's straightforward to move to a different exam board.

We've developed our specifications to encourage learners' interest in and enjoyment of English literature and literary studies. The specifications motivate learners to read widely and independently. Learners will develop their knowledge of literary analysis and evaluation to engage critically and creatively with a broad range of texts. So why choose OCR's AS/A Level English Literature?

- The variety and breadth of texts on offer means that there are many opportunities for a personal, tailored approach. We have chosen both familiar and fresh topic areas for study, including American Literature and The Immigrant Experience.
- The topics are structured to underpin the knowledge and understanding needed for the next generation of thoughtful and passionate critical readers.
- We offer clear, well balanced exam papers within a flexible assessment model.
- Learners develop the essentials for related higher education courses as well as many transferable, marketable skills.
- A comprehensive range of creative, well researched resources to cover every aspect of the course, from candidate exemplars to handy set text guides.

How do I find out more?

- Visit our AS and A Level English Literature subject webpage to access the specifications, specimen assessment materials and a wide range of free support materials, from scheme of work planners to guides to delivery, lesson activities and more.
- We've structured the AS to maximise opportunities for co-teaching with the A Level, and you can find out more about co-teachability in our guide.
- Join our conversation on the OCR English Community and @ocr_english to talk about and share good practice.

Key differences

OCR AS and A Level English Literature	Edexcel AS and A Level English Literature
We have created a straightforward assessment structure so you can focus on teaching the texts, rather than spending time coaching learners in how to navigate the exam. Both papers in each qualification are of similar length, format and structure .	The assessment structure differs . At A level there are three exams with different weightings, marks, timings and formats . At AS, the paper format, weighting and timing also differs across the two exams.
At A Level, there are two examined components with a total of 5 hours' exam time .	At A Level, there are three examined components with a total of 5 hours 30 minutes' exam time .
We offer a greater variety and breadth of text choice meaning that there are many opportunities for a personal approach tailored to learners' and teachers' interests .	Text choice is more limited in any given area.
At AS and A level, we offer a choice of five poetry texts .	At AS and A level, learners must study a specified poetry text .
The same Shakespeare text choices are given at AS and A level . Learners that go on to the A level course can study the same Shakespeare text across two years .	There is no Shakespeare text for study at AS . This means that learners that go on to an A level course will need to study a new Shakespeare text in one year .
When exploring different interpretations of texts, we don't privilege one particular critical approach .	The Edexcel specification privileges a critical approach and provides a Shakespeare Critical Anthology as a required text for study.
There is optional task choice for the NEA.	There is one task for the NEA.
