Answer ALL questions.

1* Discuss the extent to which the decision in the case of Tomlinson v Congleton BC [Source 5 pages 5-6 Special Study Material] represents a fair development of the law on occupiers' liability. [16]

2* In Source 3 [page 4 lines 11-12 Special Study Material] Devlin J suggests that "... the [occupier] may in determining the extent of his duty have regard to the fact that it is the habit, and also the duty, of prudent people to look after themselves".

Discuss how accurately the above statement reflects the development of the judicial and statutory law on an occupier's duty to lawful visitors. [34]

3 Liam, Matt and Neill are footballers who travel to an away game at Bromwich Town Football Club.

Consider the possibility of each of them succeeding in a claim in occupiers' liability against Bromwich Town Football Club in the following situations:

(a) After the match Liam goes to the dressing room to wash and change. Liam uses a shower cubicle with a sign on the door which reads 'Use other cubicles'. While showering, Liam cuts his foot on some broken floor tiles. (10)

(b) Matt goes into the toilet. The light is off and when Matt switches it on he is electrocuted and suffers burns to his hand. The wiring in the toilets has recently been replaced by Bright Sparks Electricians. (10)

(c) Neill, who has travelled with the team but is not playing, decides to explore the Bromwich Town stadium. He enters a room marked 'No admittance except to staff'. The room has been overfilled with equipment and a large tin of paint, carelessly stacked, falls on Neill's head injuring him. The lid comes off the tin, covering Neill in paint and ruining his expensive suit. (10)
