FAO: Head of Accounting

Date: November 2011

Subject: GCE Accounting H011/H411

CHANGES TO THE LAYOUT OF GCE ACCOUNTING EXAMINATION PAPERS

From January 2012 onwards, there will be a minor change to the layout of all of the following GCE Accounting examination papers:

- F011 – Accounting Principles
- F012 – Accounting Applications
- F013 – Company Accounts and Interpretation
- F014 – Management Accounting.

The format of the examination papers will remain largely unchanged. However, for those questions where it is applicable, we will introduce a 'working box' – a space for candidates to show their workings. This will be printed before the lined response space for each question (where applicable). It is hoped that this will further encourage candidates to show workings to such questions.

This is only a change to the layout of the examination papers and will have no impact on the content of a particular series' set of assessment material. An amended set of sample assessment materials showing the new layout is available from the qualification pages of OCR website.
