Introduction

OCR is offering new GCSEs for first teaching in September 2009.

We have improved the quality of our GCSEs for teachers and students alike. We've made improvements in two key areas: updated and relevant content and a focus on developing students' personal, learning and thinking skills.

In addition and in response to reforms announced by the Government and in response to Ofqual mandated changes to GCSEs, unitised assessment of this qualification is being replaced by linear assessment from September 2012. This means that candidates commencing a two year course from September 2012 will take all of their GCSE units at the end of the course in June 2014.

The main changes are:

- Controlled assessment and examinations will be summative
- Examinations provide opportunity for extended writing and more varied question types
- All GCSEs will meet the requirements of the Equality Act.

OCR offers a range of support materials, developed following extensive research and consultation with teachers. We've designed them to save you time when preparing for the specification and to support you while teaching them.

It is important to make the point that this Teacher Handbook plays a secondary role to the specifications themselves. The GCSE Economics specification is the document on which assessment is based: it specifies what content and skills need to be covered. At all times therefore, the Teacher Handbook should be read in conjunction with the Specification. If clarification on a particular point is sought, then that clarification must be found in the Specification itself.

Resources

The list below is by no means exhaustive. Inclusion does not necessarily mean complete suitability, unless the resource has been endorsed by OCR. The list is intended to act as a broad guide. It is also recognised that teachers may be familiar with other relevant resources that are not listed below.

Teachers will need to use their professional judgement in assessing the suitability of materials in the list below.

OCR recognises that the teaching of this qualification will vary greatly from school to school and from teacher to teacher. With that in mind, this Teacher Guide and the associated Scheme of Work are offered as guidance but will be subject to modifications by the individual teacher.

Websites

Biz / ed (www.bized.co.uk) has for many years produced a range of notes and worksheets for use by GCSE Economics students.

Wikipedia (www.wikipedia.com) is a huge resource of economic information. It is though unedited and may not always contain correct information.

The Economist (www.economist.com) contains short, punchy, topical articles and has an excellent search and back issues for subscribers.

(www.bbc.co.uk) is an excellent source of information for some of the topics in the GCSE specification. It has a good data section and search facility.

The EBEA website (<http://www.ebea.org.uk/home/>) contains links to useful learning resources and publications and has a section specifically geared towards the teaching and learning of GCSE Economics.

Tutor2U (www.tutor2u.net) again contains some interesting resources related to economics and a blog that candidates may find engaging.

NationMaster (www.nationmaster.com) contains a vast compilation of data from such sources as the CIA World Factbook, The UN, and OECD.

The Office for National statistics website (www.statistics.gov.uk) is a useful and regulated site that provides free access to data produced by the Office for National Statistics.

The World Bank Website (www.worldbank.org/) is especially relevant for the study of Unit A593, The UK Economy and Globalisation. It contains global statistical and topical information that is regularly updated.

HSBC's website (<http://www.hsbcukeconomyexplained.co.uk>) is a sound website containing economic information regarding the UK economy.

The website of the Bank of England (www.bankofengland.co.uk) holds a wealth of information about the UK economy and the Bank's role in this.

Students should be encouraged to read a good newspaper on a regular basis or should use news websites to aid the contextualisation of economic theory.

There are magazines produced by both the EBEA (Teaching Business and Economics) and Anforme (Economics Today) that candidates may find useful.

Other forms of Support

In order to help you implement the new GCSE Economics Specification effectively, OCR offers a comprehensive package of support. This includes:

Published Resources

OCR offers centres a wealth of quality published support with a fantastic choice of 'Official Publisher Partner' and 'Approved Publication' resources, all endorsed by OCR for use with OCR specifications.

Publisher partners

OCR works in close collaboration with three Publisher Partners; Hodder Education, Heinemann and Oxford University Press (OUP) to ensure centres have access to:

- Better published support, available when you need it, tailored to OCR specifications
- Quality resources produced in consultation with OCR subject teams, which are linked to OCR's teacher support materials
- More resources for specifications with lower candidate entries
- Materials that are subject to a thorough quality assurance process to achieve endorsement

Heinemann is the publisher partner for OCR GCSE Economics.

Heinemann has producing the following resources for OCR GCSE Economics.

OCR GCSE Economics Student Book –
Christopher Bancroft, Amy Chapman, Gordon Springall
ISBN: 9780435849054
Published: September 2009

Approved publications

OCR still endorses other publisher materials, which undergo a thorough quality assurance process to achieve endorsement. By offering a choice of endorsed materials, centres can be assured of quality support for all OCR qualifications.

Endorsement

OCR endorses a range of publisher materials to provide quality support for centres delivering its qualifications. You can be confident that materials branded with OCR's "Official Publishing Partner" or "Approved publication" logos have undergone a thorough quality assurance process to achieve endorsement. All responsibility for the content of the publisher's materials rests with the publisher.

These endorsements do not mean that the materials are the only suitable resources available or necessary to achieve an OCR qualification. Any resource lists which are produced by OCR shall include a range of appropriate texts.

OCR Training

A full range of training events provide valuable support, for the delivery and assessment of OCR qualifications:

In addition, you can gain immediate a free access to candidate information at you convenience. Sign up at <https://interchange.ocr.org.uk>

Frequently Asked Questions

What are the major changes to this specification?

- The new economics specification consists of three compulsory units.
- The scheme of assessment is untiered.
- Unit A593 consists of pre released material, issued to centres prior to the examination.

Will pre release stimulus material continue to be used?

- Yes, for unit A593, where it will provide a broad context to aid preparation for the examination. Pre-release material will be issued in the January prior to the examination.

Will OCR make past papers available?

- Papers are available to download from the OCR website.
- Only papers from previous exam series will still be available to download from the secure Interchange.

What support can we expect from publishers?

- OCR is working in partnership with individual publishers for different subject groups.
- Comprehensive resources are being developed by these Publishing Partners, Heinemann, to support the specification and complement the support available from OCR.

What support materials are being produced by OCR for the revised GCSE?

- Schemes of work and lesson plans can be downloaded from the OCR website. The materials will be available in fixed PDF format, for reference purposes, and also in Word format, so that teachers can adapt the materials for their own use.

Can learners re-sit the qualification?

- Yes but only in its entirety, re-sitting individual units mid-course is no longer possible.
