Disclaimer

Specifications are updated over time. Whilst every effort is made to check all documents, there may be contradictions between published resources and the specification, therefore please use the information on the latest specification at all times. Where changes are made to specifications these will be indicated within the document, there will be a new version number indicated, and a summary of the changes. If you do notice a discrepancy between the specification and a resource please contact us at: resources.feedback@ocr.org.uk

We will inform centres about changes to specifications. We will also publish changes on our website. The latest version of our specifications will always be those on our website (ocr.org.uk) and these may differ from printed versions.

Introducing...

A Level English Language and Literature (EMC) (from September 2015)

OCR's A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) is a unique and distinctive qualification produced with the English and Media Centre. Together, the English team at OCR and EMC have developed a new A level that engages students in the study of English and prepares them for university. At A level, English students explore the richness of language and literature and cultivate their own critical responses. This A Level English Language and Literature (EMC) enables depth and breadth of study, with flexible content that supports independence, wide reading and creativity.

A Level English Language and Literature (EMC) presents clear continuity from GCSE English and GCSE English Literature with the study of literary and non-fiction written and spoken texts. The course also enables students to develop their creativity and expertise by producing their own original writing. Students explore texts of greater variety and challenge than those encountered at GCSE and learn to apply linguistic and literary concepts and methods to their analysis of texts.

Our aim is to provide a clear and coherent course with concepts and methods clearly defined. We have made the most of the creative elements of the course and encourage students to 'read as a writer, and write as a reader'. The wide range of text choices and approach to coursework tasks provide great flexibility within a supportive structure.

Teaching and learning resources

We recognise that the introduction of a new specification can bring challenges for implementation and teaching. Our aim is to help you at every stage and we're working hard to provide a practical package of support in close consultation with teachers and other experts, so we can help you to make the change.

Designed to support progression for all

Our resources are designed to provide you with a range of teaching activities and suggestions so you can select the best approach for your particular students. You are the experts on how your students learn and our aim is to support you in the best way we can.

We want to...

- Support you with a body of knowledge that grows throughout the lifetime of the specification
- Provide you with a range of suggestions so you can select the best activity, approach or context for your particular students
- Make it easier for you to explore and interact with our resource materials, in particular to develop your own schemes of work
- Create an ongoing conversation so we can develop materials that work for you.

Plenty of useful resources

You'll have four main types of subject-specific teaching and learning resources at your fingertips:

- Delivery Guides
- Transition Guides
- Topic Exploration Packs
- Lesson Elements.

Along with subject-specific resources, you'll also have access to a selection of generic resources that focus on skills development and professional guidance for teachers.

Skills Guides – we've produced a set of Skills Guides that are not specific to English Language and Literature (EMC), but each covers a topic that could be relevant to a range of qualifications – for example, communication, legislation and research. Download the guides at ocr.org.uk/skillsguides

Active Results – a free online results analysis service to help you review the performance of individual students or your whole school. It provides access to detailed results data, enabling more comprehensive analysis of results in order to give you a more accurate measurement of the achievements of your centre and individual students. For more details refer to ocr.org.uk/activeresults

Professional development

Take advantage of our improved Professional Development Programme, designed with you in mind. Whether you want to look at our new digital training or search for training materials, you can find what you're looking for all in one place at the CPD Hub.

An introduction to the new specifications

We'll be running events to help you get to grips with our A Level English Language and Literature (EMC) qualification.

These events are designed to help prepare you for first teaching and to support your delivery at every stage.

1 Why choose an OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC)?

1a. Why choose an OCR qualification?

Choose OCR and you have the reassurance that you're working with one of the UK's leading exam boards. Our new A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) course has been developed in consultation with teachers, employers and Higher Education to provide students with a qualification that is relevant to them and meets their needs.

We're part of the Cambridge Assessment Group, Europe's largest assessment agency and a department of the University of Cambridge. Cambridge Assessment plays a leading role in developing and delivering assessments throughout the world, operating in over 150 countries.

We work with a range of education providers, including schools, colleges, workplaces and other institutions in both the public and private sectors. Over 13,000 centres choose our A levels, GCSEs and vocational qualifications including Cambridge Nationals and Cambridge Technicals.

Our Specifications

We believe in developing specifications that help you bring the subject to life and inspire your students to achieve more.

We've created teacher-friendly specifications based on extensive research and engagement with the teaching community. They're designed to be straightforward and accessible so that you can tailor the delivery of the course to suit your needs. We aim to encourage learners to become responsible for their own learning, confident in discussing ideas, innovative and engaged.

We provide a range of support services designed to help you at every stage, from preparation through to the delivery of our specifications. This includes:

- A wide range of high-quality creative resources including:
 - Delivery Guides
 - Transition Guides
 - Topic Exploration Packs
 - Lesson Elements
 - ...and much more.
- Access to Subject Advisors to support you through the transition and throughout the lifetime of the specifications.
- CPD/Training for teachers to introduce the qualifications and prepare you for first teaching.
- Active Results – our free results analysis service to help you review the performance of individual students or whole schools.

All A level qualifications offered by OCR are accredited by Ofqual, the Regulator for qualifications offered in England. The accreditation number for OCR's A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) is QN: 601/4704/0.

1b. Why choose an OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC)?

The OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) is designed to offer both learners and teachers a broad range of texts to engage with, including the study of non-fiction spoken and written texts, novels, poetry and plays, as well as providing opportunities for original writing. Text choices offer a fresh and stimulating approach to learning, enabling learners to develop the analytical tools to explore language choices in detail and to become confident and insightful readers.

The specification contains many components that will be familiar to teachers of Language and Literature

A Level. However, it also has some new features and has been devised by OCR and the English and Media Centre (EMC) to take the qualification into a new era and to offer a programme of study that is both imaginative and coherent.

A level learners will develop their skills as producers and interpreters of language through independent study and wider reading in an area of particular personal interest, offering excellent preparation for study at undergraduate level.

Aims and learning outcomes

The OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) will encourage learners to develop their interest in, and enjoyment of, English as they:

- develop and apply their knowledge of literary analysis and evaluation
- develop and apply their understanding of the concepts and methods appropriate for the analysis and study of language
- use linguistic and literary approaches in their reading and interpretation of texts, showing how the two disciplines can relate to each other
- engage creatively and critically with a wide range of texts
- explore the ways in which texts relate to each other and the contexts in which they are produced and received
- develop their skills as producers and interpreters of language.

1c. What are the key features of this specification?

This qualification has the following key features:

- developed with EMC, an award-winning educational charity, highly regarded by the English teaching community
- combining our expertise at OCR with EMC's has enabled us to develop an innovative and distinctive new qualification
- a coherent approach to integrating language and literature that draws on the discipline of stylistics and other literary and linguistic practices. This gives learners a clear idea of what is expected and is recognisable within the disciplines of English Literature and English Language in universities
- a strong emphasis on the relationship between interpreting and producing texts so that the two reinforce each other
- an emphasis on creative writing, drawing on the study of texts throughout the course, with well-supported tasks
- a non-exam component that allows learners to develop their interests and expertise through a piece of independent and sustained comparative analysis and a piece of original non-fiction writing
- a wide-ranging anthology of spoken and written non-fiction texts spanning different contexts and time periods forms a key element in the teaching of linguistic approaches
- an appealing and interesting selection of set texts, carefully chosen for the requirements of each component
- a very wide range of literary texts, from Shakespeare and Brontë to 21st century writers such as playwright Jez Butterworth, and non-fiction genres such as transcripts, satire and memoirs
- an unseen element that encourages wide reading and textual analysis, developing independence and the ability to apply literary and linguistic knowledge effectively
- flexibility within a supportive structure – a chance to slant the course more towards literary or non-literary texts through learners' choice of texts for the non-exam component.

Learners who are retaking the qualification may carry forward their result for the non-exam assessment component.

2b. Content of A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) (H474)

The OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) develops learners' ability to apply and integrate linguistic and literary approaches. Learners develop techniques of analysis, evaluation and production of texts.

Learners study a wide range of spoken and written texts from different times including six substantial texts, which include prose, poetry, drama and non-literary texts.

The OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) requires learners to show knowledge and understanding of:

- how language choices shape meanings in texts
- ways in which texts are interpreted by different readers or listeners
- ways in which texts relate to each other and to the contexts in which they are produced and received

- how linguistic and literary approaches can inform interpretations of texts
- the significance of contextual factors in the production and reception of texts
- how to apply linguistic and literary methodologies and concepts to inform responses to and interpretations of texts.

Learners are required to show awareness of the different language levels, drawn from:

- phonetics, phonology and prosodics
- lexis and semantics
- grammar including morphology
- pragmatics
- discourse.

2c. Content of Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts (Component 01)

Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts (Component 01) focuses on an OCR (EMC) anthology of 20 spoken and written texts from different time periods, types of text and contexts. Some of the spoken texts in the anthology will be spontaneous or semi-spontaneous talk but will be confined to texts that are for a public audience. Texts in the anthology will be refreshed after three years and centres will be notified in advance. A balance of spoken and written, historical and contemporary texts will be maintained. The anthology is available to download from the OCR Interchange website.

2c. Content of The language of poetry and plays (Component 02)

The language of poetry and plays (Component 02) is split into two parts.

Section A focuses on one poetry collection from a choice of six, each with 15 poems identified for study (see below and Appendix 5c).

Section B focuses on one drama text from a choice of six (see below and Appendix 5c). This component draws on the discipline of stylistics to provide a helpful structure for the integrated study of linguistic and literary approaches to poetry and drama.

The set texts will be reviewed after three years and may be subject to change. Each set text will remain on the list for the lifetime of the qualification, unless the review process identifies a necessary change. If a text is to be removed from the list and replaced with another text, centres will be notified a year in advance.

2c. Content of Reading as a writer, writing as a reader (Component 03)

Reading as a writer, writing as a reader (Component 03) is split into two parts.

Section A focuses on the nature of narrative in one prose fiction text from a choice of six (see below and Appendix 5d).

Section B requires the learners to draw upon their understanding of how narratives work as the basis for their own original writing in the genre of narrative. This is intended to develop further learners' understanding of narrative technique and allow them to demonstrate expertise and creativity in the use of English to communicate in different ways.

The set texts will be reviewed after three years and may be subject to change. Each set text will remain on the list for the lifetime of the qualification, unless the review process identifies a necessary change. If a text is to be removed from the list and replaced with another text, centres will be notified a year in advance.

2d. Content of non-exam assessment in A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC)

Content of Independent study: analysing and producing texts (Component 04)

Independent study: analysing and producing texts (Component 04), includes a comparative analysis of two substantial texts and original non-fiction writing. The non-exam component gives learners the opportunity to work independently, pursuing a particular interest and developing expertise that builds on an area of study from elsewhere in the course.

The non-exam component has two sections. For task 1, Analytical and comparative writing, learners write an essay of 1500–2000 words on a non-fiction text chosen from a list set by OCR (see below and Appendix 5e) and a second free choice text. One of the texts must have been published after 2000. For task 2, learners produce a piece of original non-fiction writing of 1000–1200 words.

Both tasks build on the knowledge and understanding required for the examined components. Task 1 requires learners to choose a second text independently and to research, plan, draft and edit their own work. Task 2 requires learners to draw on their study of spoken and written texts and produce independent, original non-fiction writing.

There is an emphasis on depth and breadth of study, allowing learners to apply synoptically the knowledge and skills developed across the qualification as a whole.

The texts and tasks for Component 04 should be chosen by the learner in discussion with the teacher. All texts and task titles must then be checked by OCR.

Centres must use the Text(s) and Task(s) Proposal Form to submit all proposed texts and tasks to OCR for approval.

You can access the Text(s) and Task(s) Proposal Form through the OCR website and Teach Cambridge <https://www.ocr.org.uk/qualifications/teach-cambridge/> (see also Appendix 5f).

Centres must check all text and task choices once via our Text and Task Proposal Service. This submission will be used for the lifetime of the specification or until we are informed of a change. It is the centre's responsibility to ensure that all text and task combinations for all learners are submitted via the Text(s) and Task(s) Proposal Form as part of the 'tell us once approach'. There is no restriction on the number of learners choosing the same texts and/or tasks. However, this non-exam assessment component is an opportunity for learners to develop their independent skills analysing and producing texts. It is not advisable for any two learners to do the same task on the same two texts.

OCR will approve that the texts and tasks chosen meet the criteria for this component:

- That at least one of the two texts must be chosen from the prescribed list of non-fiction and at least one text must have been published post-2000.
- The free-choice text must be a text published in book form, from any genre.
- The original non-fiction writing is an appropriate genre and task.

It is the centre's responsibility to ensure that the texts and tasks for all learners are acknowledged in the Text(s) and Task Title(s) Proposal Form.

OCR consultants may contact centres requesting further information in order to be able to confirm the appropriateness of the text(s) and/or task(s). Centres are advised to wait until they have received confirmation from OCR that the chosen texts and tasks are suitable before learners begin working on the tasks.

More information can be found through Teach Cambridge <https://www.ocr.org.uk/qualifications/teach-cambridge/>

Analytical and comparative writing

At least one of the two texts must be chosen from the list below and at least one text must have been published post-2000. The post-2000 texts below are marked *.

Text 1 – At least one text should be selected from the following:

- George Orwell: Down and Out in Paris and London
- Jenny Diski: Skating to Antarctica
- Alexander Masters: *Stuart: A Life Backwards
- Allie Brosh: *Hyperbole and a Half
- Bill Bryson: The Lost Continent
- Anon: *I Am The Secret Footballer
- Anna Funder: *Stasiland
- Jeannette Winterson: *Why Be Happy When You Could be Normal?
- Stephen Grosz: *The Examined Life
- Solomon Northrop: Twelve Years a Slave
- Xinran: *What the Chinese Don't Eat
- Truman Capote: In Cold Blood.

Text 2 – Free choice:

The second text must be a text published in book form, drawn from any genre. The text could be from a literary genre (novels, short stories, plays, poetry or literary non-fiction). Alternatively, it could be a published work or a collection from a non-literary genre (such as collections of journalism, essays, speeches, diaries, letters and interviews). More unusual text types, such as graphic novels or comedy scripts, television or film screenplays, as long as they have been published in book form, are equally acceptable. Learners could select their second text from the Text 1 list provided that at least one of the two texts selected for this section has been published post-2000. Learners are not permitted to choose a text from the set list of texts for any other component in this A Level in Language and Literature (EMC) specification.

The non-exam assessment should provide opportunities for learners' independent choice and specialisation. It is not advisable for any two learners to do the same task on the same two texts.

The purpose is for learners to pursue an area of individual interest, drawing on what they've learned during the course, using literary and linguistic methods. For example:

- how the writers create the 'expert' voice in The Examined Life and Malcolm Gladwell's Blink
- how Anna Funder uses the first person narrative voice differently in Stasiland and All that I Am, two different accounts of life in East Germany
- how Bill Bryson and Stewart Lee use satire to poke fun at the behaviour of ordinary people, in The Lost Continent and How I Escaped My Certain Fate
- how the writers create the voice of their subject(s) through dialogue in Stuart: A Life Backwards and in In Cold Blood.

Learners should be able to:

- apply relevant methods of text analysis, drawing on linguistic and literary fields
- identify and describe how meanings and effects are created and conveyed
- make accurate reference to texts and sources
- synthesise and reflect on their knowledge and understanding of linguistic and literary concepts and methods in the study of texts.

Original non-fiction writing

Task 2 requires learners to write a piece of original writing in a non-fiction form of approximately 1000–1200 words including a 150-word introduction. The original writing could take the form of travel writing, memoir, speeches, digital texts, multi-modal texts or any other text in a non-fiction genre. The range of text types studied for component 01 is likely to offer models for some of the kinds of non-fiction forms learners could produce. Learners could also draw on their non-fiction reading for task 1 in this non-exam component.

The 150-word introduction requires learners to identify some key elements of their original writing that they would like to draw attention to, showing the way in which their writing reveals understanding of their chosen genre and use of literary and linguistic techniques.

Learners should be able to:

- use a range of techniques to produce and evaluate texts for different audiences and purposes, informed by wide reading
- use English appropriately, accurately and creatively
- synthesise and reflect on their knowledge and understanding of some elements of linguistic and literary methods and concepts
- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of how language choices shape meanings in text.

Further support and exemplification of suitable comparative texts, areas of study and tasks are provided on the OCR website. You can check the suitability of non-exam assessment texts and tasks with OCR Subject Advisors.

2e. Prior knowledge, learning and progression

Learners in England who are beginning an A level course are likely to have followed a Key Stage 4 programme of study. Although not a prerequisite for this specification, it is recommended that, at the start of the course, learners should have studied either GCSE English Language or GCSE English Literature, or an equivalent qualification.

This course will enable learners to progress to Higher Education or directly to employment. There are a number of English specifications at OCR. Find out more at: www.ocr.org.uk.

3 Assessment of OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC)

3a. Forms of assessment

The assessment of OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) is split into four components:

three examined components and one non-exam component.

Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts (Component 01)

Component 01 is a closed text, one hour, written examination worth 32 marks which represents 16% of the qualification. In the exam, learners do a linguistic analysis in which they compare one text from the OCR (EMC) anthology with an unseen text. The question paper will have one text reprinted from the anthology plus one short unseen text. There will be clear points of connection between the anthology text and the unseen text such as theme, producer or context. Learners explore the connections between the texts in terms of mode, audience and purpose and consider the significance of context in terms of production and reception. This examination tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2, AO3 and AO4.

The language of poetry and plays (Component 02)

Component 02 is a closed text, two hour, written examination worth 64 marks which represents 32% of the qualification. The exam comprises two sections. In Section A, Poetry: stylistic analysis, learners answer one question on a poem from the collection they have studied and compare it with their choice of one or two other poems from their collection. There will be a single poem printed for each text in the exam paper. Learners will demonstrate knowledge and understanding of how the poet presents a particular idea or theme in the printed poem and in one or two further poems from the collection. The main focus here is on the poet's use of poetic and stylistic techniques and aspects of the poem foregrounded through the use of repetition, pattern-making, pattern-breaking and deviation in order to develop an interpretation. Learners will need to consider the significance of context and connections across poems.

This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2, AO3 and AO4.

In Section B, Plays: dramatic and stylistic analysis, learners answer one question on the play that they have studied. There will be a short extract printed from each text in the exam paper. Learners must draw upon their knowledge of dramatic and stylistic techniques to show knowledge and understanding of the ways in which the playwright presents a theme, idea, character or other aspect of the drama in the extract. The main focus is on the way meaning is shaped and further developed with reference to context and connections across the play as a whole. Learners will consider the significance of the extract within the play and any relevant dramatic or other contexts. This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2 and AO3.

Reading as a writer, writing as a reader (Component 03)

Component 03 is an open text, two hour, written examination worth 64 marks which represents 32% of the qualification. Copies of the texts to be used in the examination must be clean with no annotations. The exam comprises two sections. In Section A, Reading as a writer, learners will be required to answer one generic question, from a choice of two, on an aspect of narrative (such as narrative voice, the handling of time, moments of crisis), in their chosen text. They will be asked to range across the text to explore both how the particular aspect of narrative is created or presented and what role it plays in the novel. This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2 and AO3.

In Section B, Writing as a reader, learners write a short narrative, drawing on what they have learned about narrative technique in the course of their study for Section A, followed by a short commentary. Learners must choose one of two story outlines to develop as the opening of a narrative (approximately 500 words). They then write a commentary of approximately 250 words outlining the key narrative and linguistic techniques used in their opening. The main focus here is on original writing and how meaning is shaped in texts. This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2 and AO5.

Component 04: Independent study: analysing and producing texts (non-exam assessment)

Component 04 is a non-exam component worth 40 marks which represents 20% of the qualification. For task 1, learners write a comparative essay of 1500–2000 words on a non-fiction text chosen from a prescribed list in Appendix 5f and another free-choice text from any genre. This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO1, AO2, AO3 and AO4.

For task 2, learners write an original non-fiction text of 1000–1200 words including a 150-word introduction. This section tests Assessment Objectives: AO2 and AO5.

Learners are required to produce two tasks for their non-exam assessment. The overall suggested word length for the non-exam assessment is 3200 words maximum, excluding quotations, footnotes and bibliography.

3b. Assessment objectives (AO)

There are five assessment objectives in the OCR A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC). These are detailed in the table below.

Learners are expected to demonstrate their ability to:

	Assessment Objective
AO1	Apply concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study as appropriate, using associated terminology and coherent written expression.
AO2	Analyse ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.
AO3	Demonstrate understanding of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO4	Explore connections across texts, informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO5	Demonstrate expertise and creativity in the use of English to communicate in different ways.

AO weightings in A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC)

The relationship between the Assessment Objectives and the components is shown in the following table:

Component	% of A Level
	AO1%	AO2%	AO3%	AO4%	AO5%	Total%
Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts (H474/01)	4%	3%	4%	5%	0%	16%
The language of poetry and plays (H474/02)	9%	12%	8.5%	2.5%	0%	32%
Reading as a writer, writing as a reader (H474/03)	9%	11%	5%	0%	7%	32%
Independent study: analysing and producing texts (H474/04)	3%	4%	2.5%	4.5%	6%	20%
Total	25%	30%	20%	12%	13%	100%

3c. Total qualification time

Total qualification time (TQT) is the total amount of time, in hours, expected to be spent by a learner to achieve a qualification. It includes both guided learning hours and hours spent in preparation, study, and assessment. The total qualification time for A Level English Language and Literature (EMC) is 360 hours. The total guided learning time is 360 hours.

3d. Qualification availability outside of England

This qualification is available in England. For Wales and Northern Ireland please check the Qualifications in Wales Portal (QIW) or the Northern Ireland Department of Education Performance Measures /

Northern Ireland Entitlement Framework Qualifications Accreditation Number (NIEFQAN) list to see current availability.

3e. Language

This qualification is available in English only. All assessment materials are available in English only and all candidate work must be in English.

3f. Assessment availability

There will be one examination series available each year in May/June to all learners. All examined components must be taken in the same examination series at the end of the course.

This specification will be certificated from the June 2017 examination series onwards.

3g. Retaking the qualification

Learners can retake the qualification as many times as they wish. Learners must retake all examined components but they can choose to either retake the non-exam assessment (NEA) or carry forward (re-use) their most recent result (see Section 4d).

3h. Assessment of extended responses

The assessment materials for this qualification provide learners with the opportunity to demonstrate their ability to construct and develop a sustained and coherent line of reasoning and marks for extended responses are integrated into the marking criteria.

3i. Non-exam assessment

Task 1: Analytical and comparative writing. Assessment Objectives AO1, AO2, AO3 and AO4 are assessed in this task.

Task 2: Original writing: non-fiction. Assessment Objectives AO2 and AO5 are assessed in this task. Use the internal assessment criteria on the following page to assess learners' work.

Non-exam assessment guidance

There are four different stages in the production of non-exam assessed work: planning of the task; first draft; marking; final submission.

1. Planning of the task

It is expected that the teacher will provide detailed guidance to learners in relation to the purpose and requirement of the task; for example, discussion about the choice of comparative texts and an appropriate title for the essay and non-fiction writing.

The teacher should ensure that learners are clear about the assessment criteria which they are expected to meet and the skills which they need to demonstrate in each task. Any explanation or interpretation given by the teacher must be general and not specific to the learner's work.

Further guidance about the nature of advice that teachers can give to learners can be found in the JCQ Instructions for conducting coursework.

The tasks for the comparative essay and original non-fiction writing should be chosen by the learner in discussion with their teacher. The tasks must be checked by OCR; see Section 2d and Appendix 5f for details.

2. First draft

What teachers can do:

Teachers can review learners' work before it is handed in for final assessment. Advice must remain at the general level, enabling learners to take the initiative in making amendments. One review should be sufficient to enable learners to understand the demands of the assessment criteria.

What teachers cannot do:

Teachers cannot give detailed advice and suggestions as to how the work may be improved in order to meet the assessment criteria. This includes indicating errors or omissions and personally intervening to improve the presentation or content of the work.

Provided that advice remains at the general level, enabling the learner to take the initiative in making amendments, there is no need to record this advice as assistance or to deduct marks.

If a learner requires additional assistance, the teacher must record this assistance and take account of it in the marking.

3. Marking

Marking should be positive, rewarding achievement rather than penalising failure or omissions. The awarding of marks must be directly related to the marking criteria. Teachers should use their professional judgement to select the best-fit level descriptor that describes the learner's work. Teachers should use the full range of marks available to them and award all the marks in any level for which work fully meets that descriptor. Teachers should bear in mind the weighting of the assessment objectives, place the response within a level and award the appropriate mark. If a candidate does not address one of the assessment objectives targeted in the assessment they cannot achieve all of the marks in the given level.

A response will not be specifically penalised for being outside the indicative word count. However, a response that significantly differs from the word count will be self-penalising, either by not demonstrating the AOs to the required level or by not fulfilling the requirements of the task.

Teachers must clearly show how the marks have been awarded in relation to the marking criteria. A combination of the following approaches should be adopted:

Summary comments either on the work (usually at the end) or on a cover sheet.

Key pieces of evidence flagged throughout the work by annotation either in the margin or in the text.

Indications as to how marks have been awarded should:

- be clear and unambiguous
- be appropriate to the aims and objectives of the work
- facilitate the standardisation of marking within the centre
- enable the moderator to check the application of the assessment criteria to the marking.

4. Final submission

Centres must carry out internal standardisation to ensure that marks awarded by different teachers are accurate and consistent across all candidates entered for each component. In order to help set the standard of marking, centres should use exemplar material provided by OCR, and, where available, work in the centre from the previous year.

Prior to marking, teachers should mark the same small sample of work to allow for the comparison of marking standards.

Where work for a component has been marked by more than one teacher in a centre, standardisation of marking should normally be carried out according to one of the following procedures:

- Either a sample of work which has been marked by each teacher is re-marked by the teacher who is in charge of internal standardisation.
- Or all the teachers responsible for marking a component exchange some marked work (preferably at a meeting led by the teacher in charge of internal standardisation) and compare their marking standards.

Where standards are found to be inconsistent, the relevant teacher(s) should make adjustment to their marks or re-mark all learners' work for which they were responsible.

If centres are working together in a consortium they must carry out internal standardisation of marking across the consortium. Centres should retain evidence that internal standardisation has been carried out.

A clear distinction must be drawn between any interim review of coursework and final assessment for the intended examination series. Once work is submitted for final assessment it must not be revised. Under no circumstances are 'fair copies' of marked work allowed. Adding or removing any material to or from coursework after it has been presented by a learner for final assessment will constitute malpractice.

Further information can be found on the OCR website and in Section 4 of this specification, Admin: what you need to know.

3j. Non-exam assessment marking criteria for: Task 1 Analytical and comparative writing

AO weightings for Task 1: Analytical and comparative writing.

AO1 – 3%, AO2 – 2%, AO3 – 2.5%, AO4 – 4.5%, Total – 12%

In Task 1 the dominant assessment objective is AO4: Explore connections across texts, informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.

Answers will also be assessed for AO1, AO3 and AO2.

Answers should explore connections between the two chosen texts, including similarities and differences (AO4). They should develop a coherent argument, using relevant concepts and methods from linguistic and literary study and associated terminology (AO1). Responses should consider the significance of the contexts in which texts are produced and received (AO3) and analyse how meanings are shaped in the chosen texts (AO2).

The criteria below are organised to reflect the order of the dominant assessment objectives.

A response that does not address any one of the four assessment objectives targeted cannot achieve all of the marks in the given level.

Level 6: 24–21 marks

AO4	Excellent and detailed exploration of connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Excellent application of relevant concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study as appropriate. Consistently coherent and fluent written expression and apt and consistent use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Perceptive understanding of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Excellent, fully developed and detailed critical analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 5: 20–17 marks

AO4	Clearly developed exploration of connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Secure application of relevant concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study as appropriate. Consistently clear written expression and appropriate use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Clear and relevant understanding of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Clear and well-developed critical analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 4: 16–13 marks
AO4	Competent exploration of connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Competent application of relevant concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study as appropriate. Generally clear written expression and mainly appropriate use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Some understanding of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Competent analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 3: 12–9 marks
AO4	Some attempt to explore connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Some application of relevant concepts and methods selected appropriately from integrated linguistic and literary study. Generally clear written expression with occasional inconsistencies and some appropriate use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Some awareness of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Some analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 2: 8–5 marks
AO4	Limited attempt to make connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Limited attempt to apply relevant concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study appropriately. Some inconsistent written expression and limited use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Limited awareness of the significance and influence of the context in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Limited analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 1: 4–1 marks

AO4	Very little attempt to make connections across texts informed by linguistic and literary concepts and methods.
AO1	Very little attempt to apply relevant concepts and methods from integrated linguistic and literary study appropriately. Inconsistent written expression and little use of terminology relevant to the task and texts.
AO3	Very little awareness of the significance and influence of the contexts in which texts are produced and received.
AO2	Very little analysis of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

0 marks: No response or no response worthy of credit.

Note: The marking of all tasks should be on a 'best fit' principle, bearing in mind the weighting of the Assessment Objectives. Learners' work which fully meets all criteria for a level should be awarded the top mark in the level.

3k. Non-exam assessment marking criteria for: Task 2 Original writing non-fiction

AO weightings for Task 2: Original writing non-fiction.

AO2 – 2%, AO5 – 6%, Total – 8%

The dominant assessment objective is AO5:
Demonstrate expertise and creativity in the use of English to communicate in different ways. Answers should also demonstrate understanding of how meanings are shaped in their original writing (AO2).

A response that does not address one of the two assessment objectives targeted cannot achieve all of the marks in the given level.

Level 6: 16–14 marks
AO5	Flair, originality and a high degree of control demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Excellent, fully developed and detailed demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 5: 13–11 marks
AO5	Control and creativity demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Clear and well-developed demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 4: 10–8 marks
AO5	Competence and engaging effects demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Competent demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 3: 7–5 marks
AO5	Some accuracy and attempt to create effects demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Some demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 2: 4–2 marks
AO5	Limited accuracy and some attempt to create effects demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Some limited demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

Level 1: 1 mark

AO5	Little accuracy and little attempt to create effects demonstrated in the use of English to communicate in different ways.
AO2	Very little demonstration of ways in which meanings are shaped in texts.

0 marks: No response or no response worthy of credit.

Note: The marking of all tasks should be on a 'best fit' principle, bearing in mind the weighting of the Assessment Objectives. Learners' work which fully meets all criteria for a level should be awarded the top mark in the level.

3l. Synoptic assessment

Synoptic assessment involves the drawing together of knowledge, skills and understanding of different elements of the A level course. Synoptic assessment is embedded throughout the A Level in Language and Literature (EMC) specification as learners apply their knowledge of literary and linguistic concepts and methods as appropriate in a range of contexts. Learners develop their skills as interpreters and producers of texts, synthesising their knowledge and understanding of how writers shape meanings in texts.

Component 04 gives learners an opportunity to work independently, pursuing a particular interest and developing expertise that builds on study from elsewhere in the course. Both sections of component 04 are designed to be integrated with the examination components. Component 04 allows learners to apply their knowledge and skills synoptically, demonstrating the coherent learning that has taken place across the course as a whole.

3m. Calculating qualification results

A learner's overall qualification grade for A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) will be calculated by adding together their marks from the four components taken to give their total weighted mark. This mark will then be compared to the qualification level grade boundaries for the entry option taken by the learner and for the relevant exam series to determine the learner's overall qualification grade.

4 Admin: what you need to know

The information in this section is designed to give an overview of the processes involved in administering this qualification so that you can speak to your exams officer. All of the following processes require you to submit something to OCR by a specific deadline.

More information about the processes and deadlines involved at each stage of the assessment cycle can be found in the Administration area of the OCR website.

OCR's Admin overview is available on the OCR website at www.ocr.org.uk/administration.

4a. Pre-assessment

Estimated entries

Estimated entries are your best projection of the number of learners who will be entered for a qualification in a particular series. Estimated entries should be submitted to OCR by the specified deadline. They are free and do not commit your centre in any way.

Final entries

Final entries provide OCR with detailed data for each learner, showing each assessment to be taken. It is essential that you use the correct entry code, considering the relevant entry rules.

Final entries must be submitted to OCR by the published deadlines or late entry fees will apply.

All learners taking A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) must be entered for one of the following entry options:

Entry code	Title	Component code	Component title	Assessment type
H474A	English Language and Literature (EMC) (Moderated upload)	01	Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts	External Assessment
		02	The language of poetry and plays	External Assessment
		03	Reading as a writer, writing as a reader	External Assessment
		04	Independent study: analysing and producing texts	Non-Exam Assessment (Moderated upload)
H474B	English Language and Literature (EMC) (Moderated postal)	01	Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts	External Assessment
		02	The language of poetry and plays	External Assessment
		03	Reading as a writer, writing as a reader	External Assessment
		05	Independent study: analysing and producing texts	Non-Exam Assessment (Moderated postal)
H474C*	English Language and Literature (EMC)	01	Exploring non-fiction and spoken texts	External Assessment
		02	The language of poetry and plays	External Assessment
		03	Reading as a writer, writing as a reader	External Assessment
		80	Independent study: analysing and producing texts	Non-Exam Assessment (Carried forward)

*Entry option H474C should only be selected for learners who are retaking the qualification who want to carry forward their mark for the non-exam assessment.

Collecting evidence of student performance to ensure resilience in the qualifications system

Regulators have published guidance on collecting evidence of student performance as part of long-term contingency arrangements to improve the resilience of the qualifications system. You should review and consider this guidance when delivering this qualification to students at your centre.

For more detailed information on collecting evidence of student performance please visit our website at: <https://www.ocr.org.uk/administration/general-qualifications/assessment/>

4b. Accessibility and special consideration

Reasonable adjustments and access arrangements allow learners with special educational needs, disabilities or temporary injuries to access the assessment and show what they know and can do, without changing the demands of the assessment. Applications for these should be made before the examination series. Detailed information about eligibility for access arrangements can be found in the JCQ publication Access Arrangements and Reasonable Adjustments.

Special consideration is a post-assessment adjustment to marks or grades to reflect temporary injury, illness or other indisposition at the time the assessment was taken.

Detailed information about eligibility for special consideration can be found in the JCQ publication A guide to the special consideration process.

4c. External assessment arrangements

Regulations governing examination arrangements are contained in the JCQ Instructions for conducting examinations.

Head of centre annual declaration

The Head of Centre is required to provide a declaration to the JCQ as part of the annual NCN update, conducted in the autumn term, to confirm that the centre is meeting all of the requirements detailed in the specification.

Any failure by a centre to provide the Head of Centre Annual Declaration will result in your centre status being suspended and could lead to the withdrawal of our approval for you to operate as a centre.

Private candidates

Private candidates may enter for OCR assessments.

A private candidate is someone who pursues a course of study independently but takes an examination or assessment at an approved examination centre. A private candidate may be a part-time student, someone taking a distance learning course, or someone being tutored privately. They must be based in the UK.

OCR's A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) requires learners to complete non-exam assessment. This is an essential part of the course and will allow learners to develop skills for further study or employment. Private candidates need to contact OCR approved centres to establish whether they are prepared to host them as a private candidate. The centre may charge for this facility and OCR recommends that the arrangement is made early in the course.

Further guidance for private candidates may be found on the OCR website: www.ocr.org.uk

4d. Non-exam assessment

Regulations governing arrangements for internal assessments are contained in the JCQ Instructions for conducting non-examination assessments.

Approval of texts and tasks

Approval of non-exam assessment texts and task titles is mandatory. Centres must submit the chosen texts and task titles to OCR for approval using the Text(s) and Task(s) Proposal Form. If you are offering the qualification for the first time, you will need to tell us which texts and tasks your students would like to use. In future years, you will not have to re-submit for approval, under our 'tell us once' approach. Centres should wait for approval before learners begin working on their non-exam assessment. Confirmation of approval or feedback on your proposals will be sent to you via email.

Authentication of learner's work

Centres must declare that the work submitted for assessment is the learner's own by completing a centre authentication form (CCS160). This information must be retained at the centre and be available on request to either OCR or the JCQ centre inspection service.

It must be kept until the deadline has passed for centres to request a review of results. Once this deadline has passed and centres have not requested a review, this evidence can be destroyed.

Internal standardisation

Centres must carry out internal standardisation to ensure that marks awarded by different teachers are accurate and consistent across all learners entered for the component from that centre.

Moderation

The purpose of moderation is to bring the marking of internally assessed components in all participating centres to an agreed standard. This is achieved by checking a sample of each centre's marking of learners' work.

Following internal standardisation, centres submit marks to OCR and the moderator. If there are fewer than 15 learners, all the work should be submitted for moderation at the same time as marks are submitted.

Once marks have been submitted to OCR and your moderator, centres will receive a moderation sample request. Samples will include work from across the range of attainment of the learners' work.

There are two ways to submit a sample:

Moderated upload – Where you upload electronic copies of the work included in the sample using our Submit for Assessment service and your moderator accesses the work from there.

Moderated postal – Where you post the sample of work to the moderator.

The method that will be used to submit the moderation sample must be specified when making entries. The relevant entry codes are given in Section 4.a.

All learners' work must be submitted using the same entry option. It is not possible for centres to offer both options within the same series.

Centres will receive the outcome of moderation when the provisional results are issued. This will include:

Moderation Adjustments Report – Listing any scaling that has been applied to internally assessed components.

Moderator Report to Centres – A brief report by the moderator on the internal assessment of learners' work.

Carrying forward non-exam assessment (NEA)

Learners who are retaking the qualification can choose to either retake the non-exam assessment – Independent Study: analysing and producing texts (04), or carry forward their most recent result for that component.

To carry forward the NEA component result, you must use the correct carry forward entry option (see table in Section 4a).

Learners must decide at the point of entry whether they are going to carry forward the NEA result or not.

The result for the NEA component may be carried forward for the lifetime of the specification and there is no restriction on the number of times the result may be carried forward. However, only the most recent non-absent result may be carried forward.

When the result is carried forward, the grade boundaries from the previous year of entry will be used to calculate a new weighted mark for the carried forward component, so the value of the original mark is preserved.

4e. Results and certificates

Grade scale

A level qualifications are graded on the scale: A*, A, B, C, D, E, where A* is the highest. Learners who fail to reach the minimum standard for E will be Unclassified (U). Only subjects in which grades A* to E are attained will be recorded on certificates.

Results

Results are released to centres and learners for information and to allow any queries to be resolved before certificates are issued.

Centres will have access to the following results information for each learner:

- the grade for the qualification
- the raw mark for each component
- the total weighted mark for the qualification.

The following supporting information will be available:

- raw mark grade boundaries for each component
- weighted mark grade boundaries for each entry option.

Until certificates are issued, results are deemed to be provisional and may be subject to amendment. A learner's final results will be recorded on an OCR certificate.

The qualification title will be shown on the certificate as 'OCR Level 3 Advanced GCE in English Language and Literature (EMC)'.

4f. Post-results services

A number of post-results services are available:

- Review of results – If you are not happy with the outcome of a learner's results, centres may request a review of their moderation and/or marking.
- Missing and incomplete results – This service should be used if an individual subject result for a learner is missing, or the learner has been omitted entirely from the results supplied.
- Access to scripts – Centres can request access to marked scripts.

4g. Malpractice

Any breach of the regulations for the conduct of examinations and coursework may constitute malpractice (which includes maladministration) and must be reported to OCR as soon as it is detected.

Detailed information on malpractice can be found in the JCQ publication Suspected Malpractice in Examinations and Assessments: Policies and Procedures.

5 Appendices

5a. Overlap with other qualifications

There is some overlap between the content of this specification and that of specifications in A and AS Level English Language and A and AS Level English Literature. Learners who enter for this A Level in English Language and Literature (EMC) specification may not also enter for any other A level specification with the certification title English Language or English Literature in the same examination series.

5b. Avoidance of bias

The A level qualification and subject criteria have been reviewed in order to identify any feature which could disadvantage learners who share a protected

Characteristic as defined by the Equality Act 2010. All reasonable steps have been taken to minimise any such disadvantage.
