

OCR's ten key stats about examining*

52 million

The number of individual exam paper pages scanned for marking online by examiners.

99

The percentage of exam papers marked online by examiners.

567

The number of different exam papers produced by OCR.

14,500

The number of people who examine for OCR.

3900

The number of specially modified exam papers produced in braille or enlarged print.

350

The average number of GCSE papers marked by an OCR examiner.

4 million

The number of assessment items despatched by OCR in preparation for summer exams including teachers' instructions, resource materials, CDs and exam papers.

3500

The number of marks calculated mathematically by OCR to protect students' interests if a student was not able to take an exam paper for reasons such as illness.

3 million

The number of GCSE and A Level exam papers marked by OCR examiners.

1.2

The percentage of overall OCR grade changes after result enquiries.

*Based on figures for summer 2015 exams