SECTION A – Commentary Questions

Answer either Question 1 or Question 2.

Marks are awarded in parts (b) and (c) of Questions 1 and 2 for quality of written communication in your answer.

1 Read the passage and answer the questions.

‘Then, perturbed in spirit, I addressed my men. “My friends,” I said, “it is not right that only one or two of us should know the prophecies that divine Circe has made to me, and I am going to pass them on to you, so that we may all be forewarned, whether we die, or escape the worst and save our lives. Her first warning concerned the Sirens with their divine song. We must beware of them and give their flowery meadow a wide berth, but she instructed me alone to hear their voices. You must bind me very tight, standing me up against the step of the mast and lashed to the mast itself so that I cannot stir from the spot. And if I beg and command you to release me, you must tighten and add to my bonds.”

‘In this way I explained every detail to my men. In the meantime our good ship, with that friendly breeze to drive her, fast approached the Sirens’ isle. But now the wind dropped, some power lulled the waves, and a breathless calm set in. Rising from their seats my men drew in the sail and threw it into the hold, then sat down at the oars and churned the water white with their blades of polished pine. Meanwhile I took a large round of wax, cut it up small with my sharp sword, and worked the pieces with all the strength of my fingers. The wax soon grew warm with my vigorous kneading and with the rays of the Sun-god, Hyperion’s son. I took all my men in turn and plugged their ears with it. They then bound me hand and foot, standing me up by the step of the ship’s mast and then lashing me to the mast itself. This done, they sat down once more and struck the grey water with their oars.

Homer, Odyssey Book 12 lines 153–181

- (a) Briefly describe what has happened from the time when Odysseus first met Circe to the beginning of this passage. [10]
- (b) How are Odysseus’ skills as a leader shown in this passage? In your answer, you should consider Odysseus and his men and the way the passage is written. [20]
- (c) Who has the greater determination to return to Ithaca, Odysseus or his men? In your answer, you should discuss the actions of Odysseus and his men during their travels, and consider who shows the greater desire to return home. [25]

Do not answer this question if you have already answered Question 1.

Marks are awarded in parts (b) and (c) of Questions 1 and 2 for quality of written communication in your answer.

2 Read the passage and answer the questions.

She [Athene] wished the anguish to bite deeper yet into the heart of Laertes' son Odysseus.

They had among them a man with no sense of right and wrong, whose name was Ctesippus. He lived in Same, and he too, confident in his fabulous wealth, was courting the wife of the long-absent King. He now addressed the high and mighty Suitors: 'My noble lords, listen to me; I have something to say. Our guest has already been served with a fair share, as is only proper, for it would be neither good manners nor common decency to stint any friends of Telemachus who come to the house. But look! I am going to make him a present worthy of a guest, so that he may have something valuable to pass on to the bath attendant or one of the other servants in the palace of the good Odysseus.'

With this, he laid his great hand on a cow's hoof that was in the bowl and hurled it at him. But Odysseus avoided it by tilting his head slightly to one side, and the only sign of his anger, as the missile struck the solid wall, was a grim sardonic smile. Telemachus rounded on Ctesippus at once: 'It was lucky for you, Ctesippus, that my guest dodged and you didn't hit him. For if you had, I'd have run you through with my spear, and your father would have held a funeral here instead of a wedding. Understand, I won't have this disgraceful behaviour from anyone in my house. I have learnt to use my brains by now and to know right from wrong: my childhood is a thing of the past. And although I must, and do, put up with the sight of all this, the slaughtered sheep, the wine and bread consumed, since I could hardly stop you all single-handed, refrain from these wicked and malicious acts against me.'

Homer, Odyssey Book 20 lines 285–314

- (a) What help has Athene already given to Odysseus before the start of this passage? [10]
- (b) How does Homer make this passage a vivid and gripping piece of story-telling? In your answer, you should discuss what happens and the way these events are narrated. [20]
- (c) 'My childhood is a thing of the past' (line 26). How successfully does Homer depict the development of Telemachus' character? In your answer, you should consider how Telemachus matures and discuss his contribution to the Odyssey. [25]

SECTION B – Essays

Answer one question.

Start your answer on a new page.

Marks are awarded for the quality of written communication in your answer.

3 ‘Odysseus is not much of a hero.’ To what extent do you agree with this statement?

In your answer, you should:

- consider what Odysseus says and does
- discuss whether Odysseus’ words and actions make him a hero or not
- support your answer with evidence from the Odyssey.

[45]

4 ‘In control’ or ‘kept under control’. Which description do you think applies more to the position of women in Homeric society?

In your answer, you should:

- consider the behaviour and status of mortal women (do not include goddesses or Circe and Calypso)
- discuss whether any women have control and influence
- support your answer with evidence from the Odyssey.

[45]

5 Why is the Odyssey called an epic?

In your answer, you should:

- consider the content, structure and language of the Odyssey
- discuss how these things make the poem an epic
- support your answer with evidence from the Odyssey.
