Unions postpone strike

by DAVID HAWORTH, our Industrial Reporter

The national engineering strike which was due to start on Monday has been postponed by the Confederation of Shipbuilders, and the Transport & General Workers' Union. The decision, announced by the two Unions this morning, was based on the recommendation of a National Joint Council meeting, at which 10,000 men, representing 70 percent of workers involved, were present.

The representatives of the 10,000 workers, who attended the meeting, decided to continue their negotiations. They are due to meet again on Monday, when the strike is scheduled to begin.

The strike, which was to have started on Monday, was called by the two Unions over a dispute on the future of the engineering industry. The Unions claim that the Government's proposals are not enough, and are demanding better terms for their members.

Polie will appease marchers

by ERIC CLARK

LONDON POLICE want to be known as the officers of appeasement, who will prevent any further disturbances. They have already applied for a large number of new officers to help the police maintain order.

The police were ordered to act as the officers of appeasement, who will prevent any further disturbances. They have already applied for a large number of new officers to help the police maintain order.

Hopes rise for cease-fire in Vietnam

from ANTHONY HOWARD, Washington, 15 October

The United States will send a high-level delegation to North Vietnam to discuss a cease-fire in Vietnam. The move comes after a series of talks between the two sides last week.

The delegation will be led by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and include representatives from the Department of Defense, State Department, and the National Security Council.

A high-level team from South Vietnam will also join the delegation. The talks are expected to take place in Washington next week.

Jackie: We're very happy

Space men get cabin drill

Mike Oldfield, the record producer who is due to perform on the moon, has been granted a special cabin drill by NASA. The drill will be used to create a cabin for the Apollo 17 astronauts.

The Apollo Command Module, which will carry the three astronauts, is expected to be launched next month.

Capture: "It's a very happy day for all of us. We're thrilled to be able to share this experience with the world."

£25,000 Prize Bond

A man from London has won £25,000 in a prize bond draw. The prize money will be used to fund a trip to the moon for the winner and his family.

The man, who is in his sixties, said: "We had no idea we had won. We were just down the road when we heard the news. It's a dream come true."

Surviving babies make good progress

Hundreds of babies born premature have been on a special diet designed to help them grow. The diet has been introduced in several hospitals across the country.

The babies, who are typically born at 28 weeks, are fed a special formula that is rich in protein and calories. The diet has been shown to improve their growth and development.

This is a very happy day for all of us. We're thrilled to be able to share this experience with the world."