

Monday 11 October 2021 – Afternoon A Level History A

Y102/01 Anglo-Saxon England and the Norman Conquest 1035–1107

Time allowed: 1 hour 30 minutes

You must have:

• the OCR 12-page Answer Booklet

INSTRUCTIONS

- · Use black ink.
- Write your answer to each question in the Answer Booklet. The question numbers must be clearly shown.
- · Fill in the boxes on the front of the Answer Booklet.
- Answer Question 1 in Section A. Answer either Question 2 or Question 3 in Section B.

INFORMATION

- The total mark for this paper is 50.
- The marks for each question are shown in brackets [].
- Quality of extended response will be assessed in questions marked with an asterisk (*).
- This document has 4 pages.

ADVICE

· Read each question carefully before you start your answer.

SECTION A

Norman England 1087–1107

Study the four sources and then answer Question 1.

1 Using these four sources in their historical context, assess how far they support the view that William II failed in his attempts to defeat the Scots and the Welsh. [30]

Source A: A monk outlines events in 1091.

Malcolm, King of Scotland, revolted against the King of England and refused to render him the homage that he owed him. But William, having been reconciled with his brother, Robert of Normandy, brought Robert over to England on his return. Assembling the whole military force of England, William led them as far as the Firth of Forth; but finding it impossible to cross, he encamped on the shore. The King of Scots held the other bank with his troops ready for battle, and sent envoys to the King of England. The King of Scots had several conferences with William and made peace with him. The two kings disbanded their armies and departed for England together.

Orderic Vitalis, The Ecclesiastical History of England and Normandy, written before 1141

Source B: A monk at Durham gives an account of relations between Malcolm of Scotland and William II.

In 1091, he (Malcolm) went with his numberless forces to Chester-le-Street where an inconsiderable military force assembled against him and caused him speedily to retire from fear. In 1093 he invaded Northumbria with as large an army as he could collect, but he was cut off near the river Alne, with his son Edward. His army either fell by the sword, or those who escaped the sword were carried away by the inundation of the river. Two local people put the body of the King on a cart, as none of his men were left to commit it to the ground, and buried it at Tynemouth.

Simeon of Durham, A History of the Kings of England, written before 1129

Source C: A chronicle explains William II's problems with the Welsh in 1094.

The people of North Wales and then those of West and South Wales, threw off the yoke of subjection under which they had long suffered and struggled to regain their independence. They destroyed the castles which had been built in West Wales and invaded the borders, plundering the towns and killing many of the people. They demolished the castle in the Isle of Man and took control of the island. William returned to England and led an army into Wales, but he lost there many men and horses.

Florence of Worcester, Chronicle, written before 1118

Source D: A chronicle gives an account of events in 1097.

William went with a great army into Wales and quickly progressed with the help of some Welsh guides who had joined him. He remained there from Midsummer to August and suffered many losses in men and horses. The Welshmen chose elders from among themselves after they revolted against the King. The King saw he could do nothing in furtherance of his will and returned to England. He let his men build castles along the borders.

The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, 1097

© OCR 2021 Y102/01 Oct21

SECTION B

Anglo-Saxon England and the Norman Conquest 1035-1087

Answer ONE question.

- 2* 'The building of castles was the most effective method by which William I consolidated his power in England.' How far do you agree? [20]
- 3* To what extent was the government of England changed under William I? [20]

END OF QUESTION PAPER

© OCR 2021 Y102/01 Oct21

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series.

If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of the Cambridge Assessment Group; Cambridge Assessment is the brand name of University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate (UCLES), which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.

© OCR 2021 Y102/01 Oct21