

New perspectives

Dambisa Moyo (1969 to present)

Dambisa Moyo is a Zambian-born economist. She studied in both the USA and the UK and has gained four degrees, including a DPhil in Economics from Oxford University. She has been named by TIME Magazine as one of the '100 Most Influential People in the World'.

Specification references

Development economics
Scarce resources

Amartya Kumar Sen (1933 to present)

Amartya Sen was brought up in India, but since 1972 he has held university posts at Cambridge, Harvard, the London School of Economics and Oxford. In 1998, he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Economics for his contributions to welfare economics and social choice theory and for his interest in the problems of the poorest members of society.

Specification references

Development economics
Welfare economics

