

Oxford Cambridge and RSA

To be given to candidates on or after
1 March 2024 for assessment in June 2025

A Level Media Studies

H409/03/04 Making media

Non-Examination Assessment (NEA) Briefs

INSTRUCTIONS

- Choose one brief.
- Do not reproduce an existing media product.
- Group productions are not allowed. Others may act in or appear in the production and/or may operate lighting, sound, recording or other equipment under your direction.
- Use original footage, images and/or text within your production.

INFORMATION

- The total mark is 60.
- This document has 20 pages.

Guidance

Teachers can review learners' work before it is handed in for final assessment. Advice must remain at the general level, enabling learners to take the initiative in making amendments. One review should be sufficient to enable learners to understand the demands of the assessment criteria.

Statement of Intent

Learners must complete a Statement of Intent for their own media production which must be submitted with their production. A penalty will be applied if it is not supplied to the teacher with a learner's final production (see Section 3f of the specification for more details). The Statement of Intent needs to outline the ways in which the learner proposes to use the four areas of the media theoretical framework to communicate meaning and meet the requirements of their chosen brief, set by OCR.

Learners must complete the Statement of Intent document using approximately 500 words. A template is provided on the OCR website for guidance.

Teachers should refer to Section 2f of the specification for further guidance on preparatory activities (research and planning), production rules and guidance, and submission guidance.

Teachers can:

- explain the purpose of their chosen media brief
- advise on resources for individual productions
- train learners to use any necessary technology or software needed for the production
- alert the learner to key things that must be included in their final production
- review learners' work before it is handed in for final assessment (this includes rough cut edits) but advice must remain at the general level, enabling learners to take the initiative in making amendments. One review should be sufficient to enable learners to understand the demands of the assessment criteria.

Teachers must not:

- practise the learner's chosen media brief with them
- give detailed advice and suggestions as to how the work may be improved in order to meet the assessment criteria – this includes indicating errors or omissions
- personally intervene to improve the presentation or content of the work.

Providing that advice remains at the general level, enabling the learner to take the initiative in making amendments, there is no need to record this advice as assistance or deduct marks.

Brief 1: Television and online

Requirements of the brief

You work for an independent media production company. You have been given the task of producing a three-minute opening sequence of a new factual programme about music for BBC Three, and two web pages for the BBC Three website about the programme.

The opening sequence must include the title sequence.

The web pages must promote the new television programme to its target audience and enable fans to interact with the programme.

Summary of brief requirements

- Statement of Intent (approx. 500 words).¹
- Opening sequence of a pilot for a factual programme about music: One, three-minute opening sequence.
- Broadcast channel and time: Content must be suitable for evening weekday viewing on BBC Three.
- Number of web pages: One homepage and one linked page.
- Cross-media production target audience: A primarily 16–25 year old middle market audience that likes to be entertained.

There must be a clear sense of branding across the two elements of the cross-media production.

Production detail that must be included

The production of the opening sequence must include (as a minimum):

- Range of camera shots, including shot distances, angles and movement as appropriate to a factual music television programme.
- Editing of footage and sound.
- Soundtrack, which should include voice (either as voiceover or diegetic voices), sound effects and appropriately edited music.
- At least two different uses of mise-en-scène.
- At least two characters representing at least two different social groups (e.g. as defined by age, gender, race and ethnicity, sexuality).
- Graphics/titles to include the title of the programme.

The production of the web pages must include (as a minimum):

- Original audio or audio-visual content which may include material from the programme but must include at least one element produced specifically for the website.
- Use of original images. Each webpage must include at least one image that is different to those used on the other webpage and those produced for the television programme.
- Appropriate conventions of website design.
- Text introducing the main features of the programme.
- Working links from the home page to the other page.
- A range of appropriate media language techniques (typography, images, fonts, backgrounds, logos, etc.) as appropriate to the purpose of the website.

* This could be a factual programme about music, a musician or group(s).

¹ A Statement of Intent document needs to be completed as part of each OCR set brief. Learners need to complete a Statement of Intent document to outline the ways in which they propose to use the four areas of the media theoretical framework to communicate meaning and meet the requirements of their chosen set brief.

Brief 2: Radio and online

Requirements of the brief

You work for an independent media production company. You have been given the task of producing a three-minute opening sequence of a new factual programme about music for local commercial radio and two pages for the working website for the programme.

The opening sequence must introduce the concept of the music programme and provide an audience hook.

The web pages must promote the new radio programme to its target audience and enable fans to interact with the show.

Summary of brief requirements:

- Statement of Intent (approx. 500 words).¹
- Opening sequence for a factual programme about music: One, three-minute opening sequence.
- Broadcast channel and time: Content must be suitable for early evening listening on commercial local radio.
- Number of web pages: One homepage and one linked page.
- Cross media production target audience: A primarily 16–25 year old middle market audience that likes to be entertained.

There must be a clear sense of branding across the two elements of the cross-media production.

Production detail that must be included

The production of the opening sequence must include (as a minimum):

- Soundtrack, which should include a range of voice (either as voiceover or diegetic voices), sound effects and appropriately edited music.
- Editing of the opening sequence that is appropriate to the conventions of a factual programme about music.
- The name of the radio show and presenters.
- Use of voiceover or dialogue to give a clear outline of the concept of the music programme.
- At least two characters representing at least two different social groups (e.g. as defined by age, gender, race and ethnicity, sexuality).

The production of the web pages must include (as a minimum):

- Original audio or audio-visual content which may include material from the programme but must include at least one element produced specifically for the website.
- Use of original images. Each webpage must include at least one image that is different to those used on the other webpage.
- Appropriate conventions of website design, including an original title and logo for the programme and a menu bar.
- Text introducing the main features of the programme.
- Working links from the home page to the other page.
- A range of appropriate media language techniques (typography, images, fonts, backgrounds, logos, etc.) as appropriate to the purpose of the website.

* This could be a factual programme about music, a musician or group(s).

¹ A Statement of Intent document needs to be completed as part of each OCR set brief. Learners need to complete a Statement of Intent document to outline the ways in which they propose to use the four areas of the media theoretical framework to communicate meaning and meet the requirements of their chosen set brief.

Brief 3: Magazines and online

Requirements of the brief

You work for an independent media production company. You have been given the task of producing the front cover and contents page(s) of the first two editions of a new music magazine that is being launched by an independent publisher and two pages for the working website for the magazine.

Contents pages can be either single or double page spread.

The web pages must promote the new magazine to its target audience and enable fans to interact with the content.

Summary of brief requirements:

- Statement of Intent (approx. 500 words).¹
- Music magazine covers and contents pages: Two or three pages for each of the first two editions (based on choice of single or double page spread).
- Magazine distribution method: Content must be suitable for retail distribution.
- Number of web pages: One homepage and one linked page.
- Cross media production target audience: A primarily 16–25 year old middle market audience that likes to be entertained.

There must be a clear sense of branding across the two elements of the cross-media production.

Production detail that must be included

The production of the magazine covers and contents pages must include (as a minimum):

- At least four different main images using original photography across the magazine covers and contents pages.
- Editing of magazine covers and contents pages (including photos, text, graphics, typography and layout).
- Written text including elements such as the masthead, main coverline, selling lines, headlines, captions, subtitles and copy.
- Barcode, date, edition and price information on each front cover.
- A different use of mise-en-scène for each cover.
- At least two models representing at least two different social groups (e.g. as defined by age, gender, race and ethnicity, sexuality).
- A call to action pointing readers to the online website.

The production of the web pages must include (as a minimum):

- Original audio or audio-visual content appropriate to the online website.
- Use of original images. Each webpage must include at least one image that is different to those used on the other webpage and those produced for the magazine.
- Appropriate conventions of website design, including an original title and logo and a menu bar.
- Text introducing the main features of the magazine.
- Working links from the home page to the other page.
- A range of appropriate media language techniques (typography, images, fonts, backgrounds, logos, etc.) as appropriate to the purpose of the website.

¹ A Statement of Intent document needs to be completed as part of each OCR set brief. Learners need to complete a Statement of Intent document to outline the ways in which they propose to use the four areas of the media theoretical framework to communicate meaning and meet the requirements of their chosen set brief.

Brief 4: Music Video and online

Requirements of the brief

You work for an independent media production company. You have been given the task of producing a three-minute music video for a rock song by a fictional band/artist signed to Universal and two pages for the working website for the band/artist.

You may use an existing song for your music video (this does not need to be copyright free).

The web pages must promote the band/artist to its target audience and enable fans to interact with them.

Summary of brief requirements:

- Statement of Intent (approx. 500 words).¹
- Music Video: One, three-minute music video.
- Distribution channel: Content must be age appropriate for young adults from the age of 16.
- Number of web pages: One homepage and one linked page.
- Cross-media production target audience: A primarily 16–25 year old middle market audience that likes to be entertained.

There must be a clear sense of branding across the two elements of the cross-media production.

Production detail that must be included

The production of the music video must include (as a minimum):

- Range of camera shots, including shot distances, angles and movement as appropriate to a music video.
- Editing of footage appropriate to a music video.
- At least two different uses of mise-en-scène.
- At least two characters representing at least two different social groups (e.g. as defined by age, gender, race and ethnicity, sexuality).
- Graphics/titles to include the name of the track and the name of the band/artist.

The production of the web pages must include (as a minimum):

- Original audio or audio-visual content which may include material from the music video but must include at least one element produced specifically for the website.
- Use of original images. Each webpage must include at least one image that is different to those used on the other webpage and those produced for the music video.
- Appropriate conventions of website design, including an original title and logo for the band/artist's webpage and a menu bar.
- Text introducing the band/artist.
- Working links from the home page to the other page.
- A range of appropriate media language techniques (typography, images, fonts, backgrounds, logos, etc.) as appropriate to the purpose of the website.

* Allow any track that may reasonably be considered to be from the rock genre (including sub-genres of rock).

¹ A Statement of Intent document needs to be completed as part of each OCR set brief. Learners need to complete a Statement of Intent document to outline the ways in which they propose to use the four areas of the media theoretical framework to communicate meaning and meet the requirements of their chosen set brief.

Making media (H409/03/04) – marking criteria

The learner's cross-media production should be marked as three separate elements against the appropriate marking criteria as shown below, and a total mark awarded out of 60.

Elements of production	Marking criteria		Maximum mark
The television/radio/magazine/music video media product	1	Application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product	25
The online media product	2	Application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product	25
The digitally convergent nature of the cross-media product to create meaning	3	Application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning	10
			Total: 60

Each element of the cross-media production should be judged individually against the relevant set of marking criteria. Marks should be credited according to the level attained for each set of criteria. It should be noted that it is possible for a learner to achieve a different level for each element of the production. For example, a learner may demonstrate an excellent application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create their online product (Level 5) but only demonstrate adequate application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create their television/radio/print/music video media product (Level 3).

Over-length work

If work is submitted that is longer than the specified length, only the part up to (and including) the specified length can be credited. Any work beyond this must not be considered for credit against the marking criteria. Teachers should stop watching or reading work beyond the specified length. This means that:

- Brief 1 For the television production any work submitted beyond the three-minute requirement must not be considered for credit. For the online production any work submitted beyond the two-page requirement must not be considered for credit. Teachers should mark the first homepage and linked page presented.
- Brief 2 For the radio production any work submitted beyond the three-minute requirement must not be considered for credit. For the online production any work submitted beyond the two-page requirement must not be considered for credit. Teachers should mark the first homepage and linked page presented.
- Brief 3 For the magazine production any work submitted beyond the four-page requirement must not be considered for credit. Teachers should mark the first four (double or single) pages presented only. For the online production any work submitted beyond the two-page requirement must not be considered for credit. Teachers should mark the first homepage and linked page presented.

- Brief 4 For the music video production any work submitted beyond the three-minute requirement must not be considered for credit. For the online production any work submitted beyond the two-page requirement must not be considered for credit. Teachers should mark the first homepage and linked page presented.

Work that is shorter than the specified length should be marked against the marking criteria but may not allow learners to access the full range of marking criteria.

All content (including all images, text, video and audio) submitted as part of the NEA production must be original and created by the candidate themselves. The exceptions to this are the use of music in audio/audio-visual production briefs and in the original audio/audio-visual content required for the website production, and the use of existing brand logos. Where candidates have used any other found materials these must not be considered for credit.

A Statement of Intent must be supplied by the learner to each teacher with the media production. If a Statement of Intent is not supplied then a penalty of 10 marks must be deducted from the learners' overall total out of a maximum of 60. If a learner's outcome prior to the penalty is 10 marks or less, their outcome should be moved to zero marks. The purpose of the Statement of Intent is to understand what candidates have intended to do in the creation of their media product. Whether or not candidates have met the brief to a suitable standard will be assessed by the marking criteria, as indicated in the levels, the Statement of Intent is corroborating evidence.

If a learner only produces one of the two required products that make up the cross-media production then they must only be credited against the marking criteria for the product supplied and cannot be credited any marks in marking criteria 2: application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning.

The non-examined assessment marking criteria assess Assessment Objective AO3: Create media products for an intended audience, by applying knowledge and understanding of the theoretical framework of media to communicate meaning.

1. Application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product (25 marks × 2)

Level 5 21–25 marks	The learner demonstrates excellent application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A sophisticated use of a wide range of appropriate media language techniques that delivers an accomplished demonstration of knowledge and understanding of the distinctive media language of the media form, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a highly developed use of codes and conventions that communicates meaning that is highly appropriate to the media form a highly appropriate use of content and appeal which creates sophisticated meaning for the intended audience a sophisticated construction of representations which create well-selected and highly developed insights into the portrayal of events, issues, individuals and social groups as appropriate to the media form. Highly developed application of knowledge and understanding of the media industry demonstrated through a sophisticated use of the media form that is highly appropriate to the media industry context of the set brief. An excellent realisation of the chosen brief that addresses all the requirements of the brief and includes all elements of the production detail.
Level 4 16–20 marks	The learner demonstrates good application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A good use of a range of appropriate media language techniques, that delivers a good demonstration of knowledge and understanding of the distinctive media language of the media form, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a well-developed use of codes and conventions that communicates meaning that is appropriate to the media form an appropriate use of content and appeal which creates effective meaning for the intended audience a good use of representations which create well-selected and well-developed insights into the portrayal of events, issues, individuals and social groups as appropriate to the media form. Well-developed application of knowledge and understanding of the media industry demonstrated through a good use of the media form that is appropriate to the media industry context of the set brief. A good realisation of the chosen brief that addresses all requirements of the brief and includes almost all elements of the production detail.
Level 3 11–15 marks	The learner demonstrates adequate application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> An adequate use of a range of mostly appropriate media language techniques, that delivers a competent demonstration of knowledge and understanding of the distinctive media language of the media form, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a competent use of codes and conventions that communicates meaning that is reasonably appropriate to the media form a reasonably appropriate use of content and appeal which creates consistent meaning for the intended audience an adequate use of representations which create mainly well-selected insights into the portrayal of events, issues, individuals and social groups as appropriate to the media form. An adequate application of knowledge and understanding of the media industry demonstrated through a competent use of the media form that is in the most-part relevant to the media industry context of the set brief. An adequate realisation of the chosen brief that addresses most of the requirements of the brief, although some elements of the production detail may be missing.

Level 2 6–10 marks	The learner demonstrates limited application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A basic use of a limited range of appropriate media language techniques, that delivers a partial demonstration of knowledge and understanding of the distinctive media language of the media form, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ an inconsistent use of codes and conventions that communicates meaning that is not always appropriate to the media form ○ a not always appropriate use of content and appeal which creates inconsistent meaning for the intended audience ○ a basic use of representations which create a limited and/or basic selection of insights into the portrayal of events, issues, individuals and social groups as appropriate to the media form. • Limited application of knowledge and understanding of the media industry demonstrated through basic use of the media form that may not always be relevant to the media industry context of the set brief. • A limited realisation of the chosen brief that addresses some of the requirements of the brief; not all elements of the production detail are completed and those that are may be below stipulated lengths/quantity and/or may be reliant on software packages or pre-existing templates.
Level 1 1–5 marks	The learner demonstrates minimal application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A poor use of media language techniques, that delivers an inadequate demonstration of knowledge and understanding of the distinctive media language of the media form, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ a minimal use of codes and conventions that communicates little or no meaning that is relevant to the media form ○ a minimal or inappropriate use of content and appeal which creates inadequate meaning for the intended audience ○ a poor use of representations which create a poor and/or minimal selection of insights into the portrayal of events, issues, individuals and social groups as appropriate to the media form. • Minimal application of knowledge and understanding of the media industry demonstrated through an inadequate use of the media form that may not be relevant to the media industry context of the set brief. • A minimal realisation of the chosen brief that addresses few of the requirements of the brief; production details are likely to be incomplete and substantially below the stipulated lengths/quantity and/or may be over-reliant on software packages or pre-existing templates.
0	No work submitted or work that demonstrates no knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product.

2. Application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning (10 marks)

Level 5 9–10 marks	The learner demonstrates excellent application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning across the cross-media production. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sophisticated and coherent links between the two cross-media products that demonstrates a highly-developed awareness of how to use digital convergence to create meaning and engage an intended audience. Sophisticated use of techniques to create a highly-developed sense of branding across the two cross-media products that demonstrates highly appropriate, sustained and insightful meaning for the intended audience.
Level 4 7–8 marks	The learner demonstrates good application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning across the cross-media production. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Clear and consistent links between the two cross-media products that create an appropriate and at times insightful awareness of how to use digital convergence to create meaning and engage an intended audience. A good use of techniques to create a well-developed sense of branding across the two cross-media products that demonstrates appropriate and at times insightful meaning for the intended audience.
Level 3 5–6 marks	The learner demonstrates adequate application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning across the cross-media production. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Consistent links between the two cross-media products that create a reasonably appropriate awareness of how to use digital convergence to create meaning and engage an intended audience. An adequate use of techniques to create a sense of branding across the two cross-media products that demonstrates reasonably appropriate meaning for the intended audience.
Level 2 3–4 marks	The learner demonstrates limited application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning across the cross-media production. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Inconsistent links between the two cross-media products, which may not always be relevant, demonstrating a partial awareness of how to use digital convergence to create meaning and engage an intended audience. A limited use of techniques that creates an inconsistent sense of branding across the two cross-media products that may lack relevance at times but demonstrates some, limited meaning for the intended audience.

Level 1 1–2 marks	The learner demonstrates minimal application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning across the cross-media production. <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Links between the two cross-media products may be incomplete or not present at all, demonstrating little, if any, awareness of how to use digital convergence to create meaning and engage an intended audience.• A minimal use of techniques that creates little, if any, sense of branding across the two cross-media products and demonstrates little or no meaning for the intended audience.
0	No work submitted or work that demonstrates no knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning.

NEA Indicative Content

Application of knowledge and understanding of the media theoretical framework to create a media product

Television	Online
Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • an appropriate use of genre conventions in relation to the set brief • a range of camera shots (varied shot type, distance, length, angle, movement, etc.) appropriate for the specified genre • appropriate and well-paced editing (continuity editing, possible use of montage) to communicate meaning and position/engage the audience • an appropriate use of sound for the set brief, including possible voiceover, original dialogue and selection of appropriate music and sound effects • appropriate use of on-screen written text, (including the programme name and presenter(s) name(s)) • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set television brief • use genre conventions to create a highly memorable sequence containing a clear response to the set television brief that fully engages the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set television brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study. 	Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • use of appropriate conventions of website design and layout (backgrounds, typography, logos, etc.) to create a brand identity that is in line with the purpose specified in the brief and to appeal to the target audience • use of original images appropriate to the set brief • media language which is used to establish a consistent house style throughout the website • appropriate anchoring of images and text to communicate meaning and engage the intended audience • information appropriate to the set brief • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set online brief • use genre conventions to create a highly engaging website to fully address the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set online brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study.

Radio	Online
Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • an appropriate use of genre conventions in relation to the set brief • an appropriate range of sounds (including voice over, dialogue, sound effects and music) that have been edited or constructed to meet the requirements of the set radio brief • appropriate and well-paced editing to communicate meaning and position/engage the intended audience • appropriate anchoring of voiceover and dialogue with sound effects and music to communicate meaning and engage the intended audience • appropriate use of voiceover and/or dialogue • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including audio codes (setting, location, voiceover, dialogue, sound effects and music) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set radio brief • use genre conventions to create a highly memorable sequence containing a clear response to the set radio brief that fully engages the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set radio brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study. 	Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • use of appropriate conventions of website design and layout (backgrounds, typography, logos, etc.) to create a brand identity that is in line with the purpose specified in the brief and to appeal to the target audience • use of appropriate original images appropriate to the set brief • media language which is used to establish a consistent house style throughout the website • appropriate anchoring of images and text to communicate meaning and engage the intended audience • information appropriate to the set brief • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set online brief • use genre conventions to create a highly engaging website to fully address the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set online brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study.

Magazines	Online
Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the set brief and specified audience • appropriate conventions of magazine page design and layout (composition and use of backgrounds, typography, masthead/headings and subheadings, colour, etc.) to create a brand identity and appeal to the target audience • appropriate use of a range of original images and cover lines for the magazine product • media language which is used to establish a consistent house style and create a clear sense of brand identity across the magazine product • appropriate anchoring of images and text to communicate meaning and engage the target audience • appropriate use of language (tone, register, vocabulary) for the magazine product and for the target audience; clear and appropriate mode of address • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set magazine brief • use genre conventions to create a highly engaging series of pages to fully engage the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set magazine brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study. 	Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • use of appropriate conventions of website design and layout (backgrounds, typography, logos, etc.) to create a brand identity that is in line with the purpose specified in the brief and to appeal to the target audience • use of appropriate original images appropriate to the set brief, for example, including further articles • media language which is used to establish a consistent house style throughout the website • appropriate anchoring of images and text to communicate meaning and engage the intended audience • information appropriate to the set brief • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set online brief • use genre conventions to create a highly engaging website to fully address the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set online brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study.

Music video	Online
Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the set brief and target audience • an appropriate use of genre conventions in relation to the set brief • an appropriate range of shots (shot type, distance, length, angle, movement, etc.) used for the specified genre of music video • appropriate and well-paced editing of performance footage and/or concept/narrative footage to communicate meaning and position/engage the audience • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.) • in relation to the points above, appropriate anchoring of moving image with sound to communicate meaning and engage the audience, for example, editing to the beat, lip synching, interpretation of lyrics through performance and/or narrative. In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set music video brief • use genre conventions to create a highly memorable music video that establishes a clear concept and interpretation of the song, fully engages the audience, and promotes the identity of the band/artist • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set music video brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study. 	Learners are likely to include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an appropriate concept for the specified genre and audience • use of appropriate conventions of website design and layout (backgrounds, typography, logos, etc.) to create a brand identity that is in line with the purpose specified in the brief and to appeal to the target audience • use of appropriate original images appropriate to the set brief • media language which is used to establish a consistent house style throughout the website • appropriate anchoring of images and text to communicate meaning and engage the intended audience • information appropriate to the set brief • appropriate techniques to construct representations, including visual codes (mise-en-scène – setting/location, costume, props, makeup, etc.), technical codes (camera angles, lighting, etc.) and language (tone, register, vocabulary, etc.). In the top level, learners may: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • convey values, attitudes and beliefs appropriate to the set online brief • use genre conventions to create a highly engaging website to fully address the audience • use intertextuality or genre hybridity or other sophisticated media language techniques as appropriate to the brief • use appropriate techniques to construct sophisticated representations of individuals and/or social groups that are highly appropriate to the set online brief • draw together knowledge and understanding from their whole course of study.

NEA indicative content

Application of knowledge and understanding of the digitally convergent nature of contemporary media to create meaning

Learners are likely to include:

- an appropriate use of techniques that shows an understanding of digital convergence and constructs links between both cross-media products
- an appropriate and consistent brand design that demonstrates meaning for an intended audience.

In the top level, learners may:

- use highly appropriate techniques to clearly link both products and clearly reference additional content only available online, for example, in a radio programme the listener may be directed through dialogue or voiceover to a competition or feature related to the programme that can only be accessed online
- use hidden intertextual references ('Easter Eggs') between both cross-media products, for example, hiding a hidden message in a music video about a website feature or competition on a noticeboard behind the singer and then making it known in a fan comment on the online website thus extending the value of the online media product to the intended audience and also driving the audience back to the offline media product to search for further hidden references ('Easter Eggs')
- use highly appropriate techniques to construct a clear and coherent sense of brand across the two cross-media products, for example, through a consistent use of names, logos, graphics, titles, sound effects
- include a mixture of found material from their offline media product in their online media product (such as audio or audio visual extracts or images) as well as including additional original material such as behind the scenes footage, audio interviews or still images of key personnel to further create meaning for and engage the intended audience and also further extend the brand across both cross-media products.

BLANK PAGE

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series. If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of Cambridge University Press & Assessment, which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.