INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

- Write your name in capital letters, your Centre Number and Candidate Number in the boxes above.
- Use black ink. Pencil may be used for graphs and diagrams only.
- Read each question carefully and make sure you know what you have to do before starting your answer.
- Answer all the questions.
- Do not write in the bar codes.
- Do not write outside the box bordering each page.
- Write your answer to each question in the space provided.

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

- The number of marks for each question is given in brackets [ ] at the end of each question or part question.
- Your quality of written communication is assessed on the question marked with an asterisk (*).
- The total number of marks for this paper is 60.
1 (a) In written contracts of employment basic information such as the name of the employer, the name of the employee and the start date must be included.

(b) Read the following passage.

Sid has worked as a van driver for the past twenty years delivering goods for a manufacturer of electrical goods. Sid used to be a weekly paid worker, driving for forty hours a week. Three years ago when there was little work, his employer asked him to work under a more flexible arrangement which he has done ever since.

In the chart below tick three boxes which indicate that Sid is self-employed rather than an employee.

4. There are different types of dismissal:
   - Summary dismissal
   - Wrongful dismissal
   - Unfair dismissal
   - Constructive dismissal

(a) Outline the ways in which constructive dismissal is different from the other types of dismissal.

(b) Chris has been dismissed half way through his working day, escorted from the premises, and told never to return (summary dismissal). His employer told Chris that this was because Chris refused to obey an instruction from his manager to stop reading the newspaper when he should be working, and when the manager repeated the instruction Chris punched the manager in the face.

Explain three reasons why summary dismissal may have been appropriate.

Reason 2  ....................................................................................................................................

Reason 3  ....................................................................................................................................

(c) In any claim for dismissal, some types of dismissal are regarded as automatically unfair.

Identify the three situations which are automatically unfair dismissals. Show your answer with a tick ☑ next to the appropriate situations.

(i) Ann, a woman, and Brian, a man, are employed in the same restaurant by the same employer. Ann is a waitress and Brian is a waiter. They both work exactly the same hours and do exactly the same work but Ann is paid only half the wage that Brian is paid.

Her employers have refused.

(a) Identify which area of discrimination law is involved in each situation. [3]
Assessment Objective 1
1 mark for each correct type identified (maximum 3 marks)
Candidates will identify as follows:
• Equal pay
• Discrimination on sexual orientation
• Disability discrimination

(b) Give reasons why the party in each situation (i), (ii) and (iii) will be able to show that they have in fact been discriminated against. [9]
Assessment Objective 2
For each of the three scenarios above give credit as follows:
• 0 marks for no response or no response worthy of credit
• 1 mark for identifying 1 basic point or limited reasoning
• 2 marks for identifying 2 basic points or adequate reasoning
• 3 marks for a number of points or good reasoning
(maximum 9 marks)
Candidates will give reasons as follows:
(i) • Ann and Brian are doing ‘like work’ – work that is the same or broadly similar
• There is no apparent justification for the difference
• Therefore Ann is being treated less favourably than Brian purely because she is a woman and should be able to claim equal pay with him
Credit any other relevant response.
(ii) • Claude has been dismissed purely because of his sexual orientation which is now covered by discrimination law
• It is obvious that his employer has dismissed him because of his sexual orientation and this is direct discrimination

- 1 mark for basic point or limited discussion
- 2 marks for developed discussion

Candidates will discuss any of the following (credit should be given for both breadth and depth):

- To ensure fairness and justice in the workplace
- To preserve equality under the law
- To avoid stereotyping and prejudice in the workplace from employers and fellow employees
- To ensure people get appointed and promoted on merit
- To avoid bullying and harassment in the workplace
- To ensure a productive working environment

| 4(a)            | There are different types of dismissal:
• Summary dismissal
• Wrongful dismissal
• Unfair dismissal
• Constructive dismissal
Outline the ways in which constructive dismissal is different from the other types of dismissal.                                                                                                  | [3]   |

Assessment Objective 1
1 mark for each way which is outlined (maximum 3 marks)
Candidates will outline any of the following differences:
• The employee is not actually dismissed
• The employee leaves work
• Because the employer has breached the contract in a fundamental way
• Credit any reference to the reasons why the employee feels that he is being constructively dismissed e.g. harassment, victimisation, unilateral change of terms etc
Credit any other relevant response.

| (b)             | Chris has been dismissed half way through his working day, escorted from the premises, and told never to return (summary dismissal). His employer told Chris that this was because Chris refused to obey an instruction from his manager to stop reading the newspaper when he should be working, and when the manager repeated the instruction Chris punched the manager in the face. Explain three reasons why summary dismissal may have been appropriate.
Assessment Objective 2
1 mark for each reason explained (maximum 3 marks)
Candidates will explain three of the following reasons:
• Summary dismissal can be used for gross misconduct | [3]   |

|                 | • Refusal to obey a lawful and reasonable instruction is gross misconduct
|                 | • Violence is also gross misconduct
|                 | • Chris has both refused reasonable orders and been violent at work
|                 | • Therefore his behaviour is gross misconduct
|                 | • and this may justify his summary dismissal

(c) | In any claim for dismissal, some types of dismissal are regarded as automatically unfair. Identify the three situations which are automatically unfair dismissals. Show your answer with a tick (✓) next to the appropriate situations. Assessment Objective 1 1 mark for each correct tick (maximum 3 marks) Candidates will tick the boxes as follows:  A genuine redundancy  Dismissal of a pregnant employee purely because she is pregnant ✓  Dismissal of a person who has stolen from his employer  Dismissal of a person who is too ill ever to return to work ✓  Dismissal of a person working on a building site who insisted on being given a hard hat ✓  Dismissal of an employee because he joined a trade union ✓ | [3]
* (d) | Discuss some reasons why it is important for employers to have the right to dismiss employees, giving examples of situations in which dismissal would be necessary. Assessment Objective 3 Candidates will score as follows: 0 marks: no response or no response worthy of credit. 1-3 marks: basic points made with basic communication. The response lacks organisation, structure and accuracy of spelling, punctuation and grammar. 4-6 points made with some elaboration and adequate communication. The response is adequately organised, structured and with some errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar. 7-9 marks: points explained with good reasoning and with effective communication through discussion. The response is well organised, structured, with few errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar. Candidates will discuss any of the following (credit should be given for both breadth and depth):  - The employee might have lied about his qualifications in his application  - The employee may be incapable of doing the job despite all attempts to train him  - The employee may be incapable of work because of permanent illness – so it would be unfair for the employer to have to pay him indefinitely  - The employee may have a history of insubordination and not responding to warnings  - The employee may be violent  - The employee may engage in unsafe practices despite warnings from the employer  - The employee may be dishonest  - The employee may have exhausted the discipline process following | [9]
